

Code of Conduct

As a part of the JWoC team and community we will be working with each other for more than one month period on various open source projects, so there will be a huge diversity of skills, experiences and opinions.

We value each of your individual opinion but we would value respectful behaviour more.

Respectful behaviour includes:

- Be considerate and try to keep a kind and helpful mentality because it is the main working principle of any community.
- Be respectful to others. At some point of time you may not agree with others that is totally fine, but disagreement should not lead to any personal attack or poor behaviour.
- Be careful with the words you choose, There are no such strict rules but we expect some level of professionalism and you are an adult, you know what not to say
- We don't encourage either stalking or any kind of personal message to both of the mentors and fellows.

If you think someone is violating the code of conduct we encourage you to report it by mailing us at jwoc2k20@gmail.com